Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 6, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chao (US 2003/0145439 A1).

A buckle (2) comprises a socket (21), a plug (22) and a bridge (between 221). The plug has a tip end to be inserted to the socket and to be released from the socket by pressing from both sides of the socket (Fig. 8). The plug having a base formed on a base end (Fig. 8). At least a pair of lock arms extends from the base to the tip end of the plug (Fig. 8). At least one guide bar disposed between the lock arms (Fig. 8). An engaging part (ends of 221) is formed on a part of the lock arm to be engageable with the socket (Fig. 8). A pressing part (center of 221) is disposed at a part of the lock arm to be pressed when the socket is release (Fig. 8). The bridge connects the parts of at least the pair of lock arms and extends around a tip end of the guide bar (Fig. 8). The tip end of the guide bar is located on the side of the tip end of the plug relative to the both ends of the bridge and the bridge extends around the tip end of the guide bar at the central part thereof without contacting the tip end of the guide bar (Fig. 8).

The bridge is approximately V-shaped bent at the central part (Fig. 8).

The center angle of the approximately V-shaped is 90 degrees or less (Fig. 8).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments, see page 3, filed 19 July 2005, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 6 and 7 under 35 USC 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Patent Document No. 2000166616 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Chao (US 2003/0145439 A1). Especially since the Applicant does not provide any reasoning on how claim 6 is patentable over Chao and it is clear that Chao discloses all the limitations recited in claims 6, 8 and 9 since the tip end of the guide bar (element inside of the locking legs 221) is located on the side of the tip end of the plug relative to the both ends of the bridge and the bridge extends around the tip end of the guide bar at the central part thereof without contacting the tip end of the guide bar as shown in Figure 8.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kasai (US 4,672,725), Saitou et al. (US 5,806,152), Anscher (US 6,311,374), Van Tassel (US 6,487,761) and Japanese Patent Document 06125803 A are cited to show state of the art with respect to a plug with a bridge connecting two locking arms.
